Seniors

The time is finally here for those timid, inexperienced eighth graders of 1975-1976 to become the proud, responsible graduates of 1980. Of different lifestyles, heritages, and beliefs, these ninety-one seniors have experienced a pervading sense of oneness and loyalty as they have come together to work for many common goals. Amid the hardships of term papers and physics tests, amid the joys of fun night and homecoming, these seniors have faced one ever-present, ominous factor: change. Neither the rules of grammar nor the laws of physics can prepare one for the emotional stress and perplexity that the reformation, alteration, and fluctuation called change can bring. But Mount de Sales has taught the seniors of 1980 to exercise an adaptability that will enable these young adults to conform to and to perform under the auspices of change. The experiences etched onto these yearbook pages can only mirror a small portion of the growth, the maturity, and the change shared by these seniors. When the experiences, the relationships, the faces, and the names of the Class of 1980 have begun to fade away, the feeling of oneness and hope will live on in one conglomeration of nostalgia called—a memory.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

Get Ahead of the Pack — In the AIR FORCE RESERVE. Join BEFORE You Graduate!

Earn an Associate in Applied Science Degree in the Air Force Reserve.* If you're within 3 months of graduating, you will be paid over $50 for each weekend spent as an Air Force Reservist. What's more, after you graduate, and complete basic training you can attend one of the finest technical schools in the nation and receive college credit for attending. When you finish your initial active duty training, you'll be free to return to a full-time civilian job or attend college, and continue to be a paid part-time Air Force Reservist in your own community.

*Through participation in the Community College of the Air Force.

WILLIAMS & ASSOCIATES is in the business of solving construction problems, both small and large. We provide a unique and complete building service to the industrial client, offering a complete-package building program, or we can contract for any portion of a proposed project. We have a team staffed to handle everything from pre-planning to occupancy, including equipment installations, or we will work with any architect and/or engineering consultant the client might care to choose.

We also stand ready to furnish industrial maintenance services no matter how small the individual job.
